TRUMAN REVEALS U.S. HAS ATOMIC ENGINE

Father Mightily At His Ease

"Father of the Year" Christopher Thomas Ziegler, 52, Avon Lake, O., is mightily at his ease in a New York hotel as he accepts fond attention from his wife and sons on the trip won from the National Father's Day committee. Sons are Jack, 15 (left), and David, 13. Ziegler is a stock chaser in a factory and a member of the AFL-United Automobile Workers.

How To Keep Our Liberty

Organizations Formed To Get Voters To Polls

By RAYMOND MOLEY
Eleventh of 12 Articles.

The first decision that must be made by any group intent upon organizing militant political action is its objective.

1. Does it intend to keep itself independent of any legally constituted party organization but support the candidate or candidates of one or the other party? In short, will it co-operate with a party without being identified with it?
2. Does it intend to work within the legal framework of a party for the purpose of gaining party control?
3. Does it intend to limit itself to a specific function, such as to get out the vote?

It is very important to make this decision. For to confuse the first and second of these possible objectives will result in misunderstanding, waste, and duplication of effort, and the ultimate weakening of both citizen activity and party responsibility. The ideal of all effective citizen action should be the creation of responsible party government of such a character as to win the active and the devoted support of many citizens.

Many Examples

There are many illustrations of successful citizen action in this country. The fact is that such citizens' movements have been springing up rapidly since 1948. A great many more will appear this year.

In the book which is condensed in these articles I have presented three types. My first illustration is an organization centered in the beginning in one congressional district but now extended to several. It is in a very large midwestern city. It began in 1946, when a small group of men who were the heads of small manufacturing establishments decided that they should make their influence felt in the congressional election of 1946. For 16 years their district had been represented by Democratic congressmen who were not only subservient to the city machine but who had supported the Roosevelt-Truman policies without exception and without discrimination.

These men decided that they would give their organization no name, would avoid all newspaper publicity, and would at all times keep themselves in the background. As businessmen they organized their campaign as a "sales" effort. They employed an expert paid manager who staffed himself with other experienced political workers. Then they trained many volunteers in the act of winning votes and influencing voters.

The businessmen who originated the movement acted as a board of directors. They collected the necessary finances, selected the top staff, made the necessary contacts with the official Republican organization, and gave the whole enterprise continuous attention and supervision.

In short, these businessmen recognized that they owed some-

Trial Runs In Derby Set For Sunday

Trial runs for the Salem Soap Box Derby will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday on Arch St. The street will be roped off for boys who wish to test run their racers down a grade comparable to that on which they will race Sunday, June 22, in the official derby.

A complete prize list for the Salem race, scheduled for Damascus Rd., Blackburn Hill, has been announced by the Chamber of Commerce, who collected the prizes.

Prizes include: First place—$100 defense bond contributed by Parker Chevrolet and a giant trophy; Second place—bicycle, donated by Firestone Stores; Class "A" runner-up—fielders baseball glove and baseball; Class "B" runner-up—basketball and basket.

Special prizes include: best built racer—complete set of tools from Shell Oil Co.; best upholstered car—set of power tools, donated by Collins-Aikman Co. of New York City; ribbons for each heat winner, courtesy of McCulloch's; reserved seats for all contestants courtesy of Kiwanis and Elks Clubs.

The lumber for the starting ramp for atop the track was donated by the Salem Lumber Co. Buses will run to the derby from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. the day of the race and will carry spectators back from the track after the race.

The derby, in which 51 boys are now entered, is co-sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Chevrolet Motor Co. Salem civic clubs have cooperated in the planning and work for the derby.

Truman Insists On Federal Civil Rights Program

Attack On "Racial Discrimination" Heats Political Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's renewed insistence on a civil rights program backed by the full force and power of the federal government today added new fuel to the already controversial presidential campaigns.

His spirited attack on "racial discrimination and prejudice" yesterday in a commencement address at Howard University, a Negro institution, brought immediate but mixed reaction from congressmen, even among those of his own party.

"I am not one of those who feel that we can leave these matters up to the states alone, or that we can rely solely on the efforts of men of good will," Truman told an audience estimated by university officials at 15,000.

"Our federal government must live up to its ideals professed in our Declaration of Independence and the duties imposed on it by our Constitution. The full force and power of the federal government must stand behind the protection of rights guaranteed by our federal Constitution."

Most of the candidates of both parties have taken the position that a Fair Employment Practices Commission (FEPC), poll tax repeal, anti-lynching laws and other such legislation should be left up to the states.

"He's still playing politics with this civil rights issue," Sen. Elender (D-La.) said of the address. Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the speech is "not calculated to promote harmony either within the Democratic party or among the races."

Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said "this issue could split and defeat the Democrats hopelessly in the elections."

Fight For Program
But Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY), a long-time advocate of strong civil rights laws, said "I'm on the platform committee for the national convention and I'm going to cite this speech and fight for strong, specific platform planks for a FEPC law with teeth in it, and the entire program outlined by President Truman."

Although Truman did not mention by name Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, he was widely expected to.

Union Officials Declare Strike Will Continue

Recommendations Of WSB Must Be Met, CIO Leaders Say

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Leaders of the CIO United Steelworkers say 650,000 striking members will continue their shutdown of most of the nation's steel industry "until our cause is won."

The steelworkers executive board and wage policy committee—called into extraordinary session by President Philip Murray—issued a sharply-worded statement after hearing Murray review latest developments in the 13-day old strike.

The statement said there will be no retreat in the union's stand. That calls for a settlement embodying all recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board.

Promised Steel For Defense

The union took cognizance that the strike is shutting off vitally needed steel for the war in Korea. It promised all possible help to produce such steel. Union, company and government officials now are trying to work out a plan to resume production in some plants.

Pointing to the WSB recommendations, the statement declared: "We . . . believe it to be essential that the Congress of the United States require the steel industry to manifest its loyalty to our country by adherence to the requirements of our nation by a wholesome acceptance of the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board."

Suggested 26 Cent Boost

The WSB, in addition to recommending adoption of a union shop in the industry—which provides that all workers must belong to the union—suggested a 26 cents an hour wage hike. The men now average about $1.95 an hour.

The union's policy makers declared the steel companies have been making profits at a "tremendous rate since the Korean War began." They declared "the industry offered a wage increase in excess averaging only 13.3 cents an hour over the 18-month period starting January 1, 1952." This offer, the union said, "is less than the spiraling cost of living has eaten out of steel workers' buying power since our last wage adjustment."

No Comment From Industry

There was no comment from steel company leaders. There is no indication of a resumption of negotiations which broke off a few days ago after they had been started up again at the behest of President Truman.

There is no indication that President Truman will take further action immediately. The President, already rebuffed by Congress in request for power to seize the industry, discussed the strike briefly with his cabinet yesterday. But apparently nothing was decided.

The Senate already has told President Truman to use the Taft-Hartley Act—an act he dislikes—to get the industry rolling again. The act provides for an 80-day no-strike injunction.

U.S. Troops Repulse Chinese Battalion

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Two American regiments early today repulsed a Chinese battalion trying to cut off their newly-won positions along a mass of hills on the Western Korean Front.

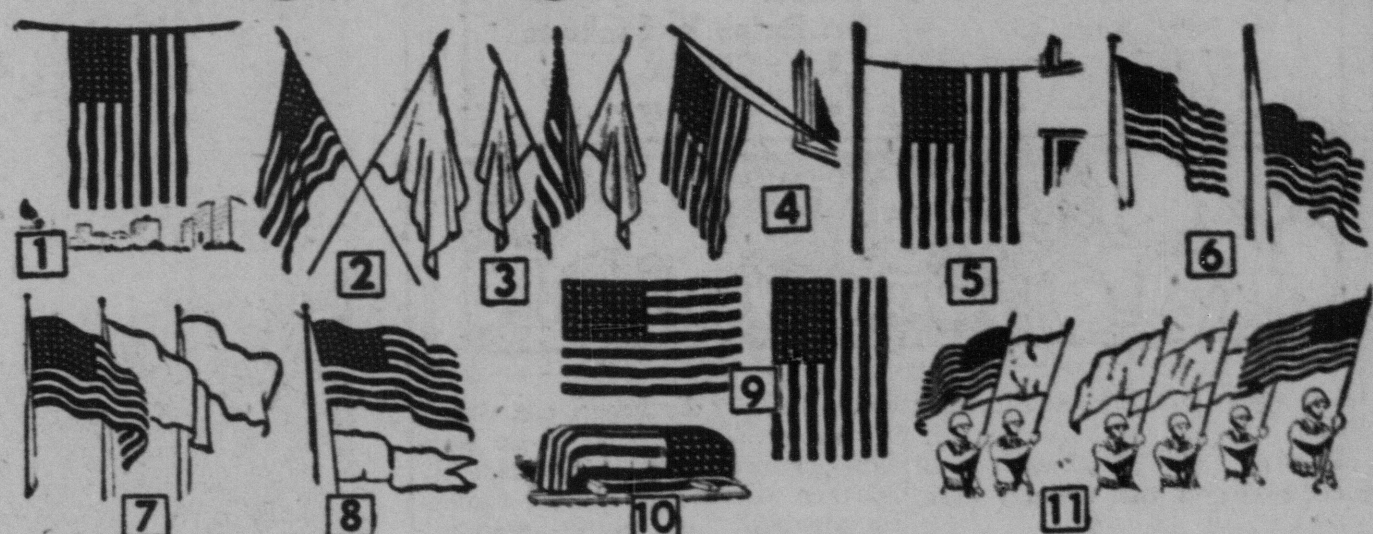

In three hours of some of the most savage fighting since November, the 45th Division (Oklahoma) troops regained all of the T-shaped group of ridges west of Chorwon.

The 750 Chinese attacked before midnight with tanks or self-propelled guns and an artillery-mortar barrage. By 2:25 a.m., the 179th and 180th Regiments, aided by fighter-bombers and tanks, drove the Reds out, U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters said.

Sporadic sniping and long range firing continued during daylight. There was no estimate of Red casualties but the staff officer said troops observed "many Chinese bodies in the area."

As the fierce battle of the hills rolled into its ninth day, an Eighth Army staff officer had no explanation for the increased Red activity. Several American generals have warned against a Communist offensive.

I Pledge Allegiance...

KNOWLEDGE of the correct display of and proper respect toward the Stars and Stripes is one mark of a good American.

To help spread this knowledge the United States Marine Corps has issued a booklet for the public entitled, "How to Respect and Display Our Flag." Among the rules to be followed are these:

1—When displayed over the middle of the street, the flag should be suspended vertically with the union to the North in an east and west street, or to the East in a north and south street.

2—When displayed with another flag from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States of America should be on the right (the flag's own right) and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

3—When a number of flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs with our national flag, the latter should be at the center or at the highest point of the group.

4—When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at any angle from the window sill, balcony or front of a building, the union of the flag should go clear to the peak of the staff unless the flag is to be displayed at half-mast.

5—When the flag is suspended over a sidewalk from a rope, extending from house to pole at the edge of the sidewalk, the flag should be hoisted out from the building toward the pole, union first.

6—When it is to be flown at half-mast, the flag should be hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-mast position; before lowering the flag for the day, it should be raised again to the peak. By half-mast is meant hauling down the flag to one-half the distance between the top and bottom of the staff. On Memorial Day, display at half-mast until noon only, then hoist to top of staff.

7—When the flags of two or more nations are displayed, they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size. International usage or forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.

8—When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States of America, the latter should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs, the Stars and Stripes should be hoisted first and lowered last.

9—When the flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right. When displayed in a window, it should be hung the same way. The flag never should be used for festoons, rosettes or drapings.

10—When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the Stars and Stripes either should be on the marching right, or when there is a line of other flags, our national flag may be in front of the center of that line.

11—When the flag is used to cover a casket, it should be so placed that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave or allowed to touch the ground.

In addition to these, of course, the flag should be protected against becoming soiled and never should touch the ground or floor or be allowed to brush objects.

POWs Driven From Compound With Tear Gas

U.S. Military Police Rescue 275 Anti-Reds, Capture 15 leaders

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (AP)—U.S. military police drove 500 defiant North Korean prisoners of war out of a compound with tear gas today, hauled away 15 leaders and liberated 273 prisoners who said they were anti-Communists.

It was the third time during the day guards had thrown tear gas grenades into new, smaller compounds to quickly quell Red defiance.

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner's headquarters dismissed the incidents as minor.

The third incident of the day was touched off when an anti-Red POW escaped a compound and said the 15 Red leaders had sentenced him to death last night in a kangaroo court.

Ordered POWs Into Corridor

American military police guarding the compound then ordered all prisoners into a corridor between two compounds. The prisoners refused. Twelve tear gas grenades were hurled into the barbed wire enclosure, forcing the Reds out.

The POW who had escaped then pointed out the 15 prisoners he said tried him in a kangaroo court. The 15 were hauled to a "maximum security" jail for questioning.

The escaped prisoner also pointed out 87 other POWs he said were lesser leaders. They were taken to another compound for interrogation.

Camp officials told the prisoners that any who wanted to be separated as anti-Communist should step out, and 273 did.

This raised to 783 the number of POWs who have declared themselves anti-Reds since last Tuesday.

Camp authorities said the compound where the third incident occurred was the third incident of the day.

Gromyko New Ambassador To Britain; May Open Peace Drive

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, famed for his deadpan walkouts at United Nations meetings, is Russia's new ambassador to Britain.

His appointment, announced last night by the Moscow government, climaxed a big shakeup of top level posts in the Russian diplomatic service.

In London, a British Foreign Office source suggested the surprise move may mean a new Soviet peace offensive is on the way.

The Kremlin announcement also confirmed earlier unofficial reports that Georgi Zarubin, Russian envoy to London for more than five years, would become Soviet Ambassador to the United States.

He will succeed Alexander Panushkin, who has been transferred to head the big Russian mission in Red China.

The appointment of the poker-faced Gromyko to the London post is not necessarily a step down for the one-time boy wonder of Soviet diplomacy.

By assigning Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky's right-hand man to London, the Russians apparently are attempting to spotlight to the world the importance they place on relations with Britain.

Gromyko, who is 43, was appointed second-in-command to Vishinsky in 1949. Top Kremlin leaders are believed to have the greatest confidence in him.

A British Foreign Office source said Gromyko may lead a new super-diplomatic mission to London.

"It rather looks as if a new approach may be on the way," he commented, but declined further speculation.

Park Swing Seriously Injures Lisbon Youth

Richard Lee Barnes, 13, of RD 4, Lisbon, was seriously injured when struck in the head by a swing at Firestone Park in Columbiana early Friday afternoon.

Admitted to Salem City Hospital at 1:30 p.m., he was found to have suffered a skull injury. His condition today is reported "fairly good."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Barnes, RD 4, Lisbon.

Device Nearly Completed For Submarines

President Speaks At Keel-Laying Service For Atomic Vessel

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—President Truman disclosed today that a "full-size, working" atomic engine for submarines is almost completed for test runs.

The President gave out the news in an address prepared for delivery at the ceremonies here in connection with the laying of the keel for the nation's first atomic powered submersible, The Nautilus.

At the same time he hit out hard at what he called dangerous efforts to sell the American people on the idea that there is "some cut-rate, bargain-counter route" to national security.

Blasts At Ike

And he swung a punch at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, one of the front-running candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

He said he had heard the other day that "somebody" was talking about a 40 billion dollar tax cut. That was an obvious reference to a statement attributed to the general.

Truman commented that "politics does funny things to people who are seeking office" and criticized "passion for economy regardless of the consequences" which he said is rampant in Congress.

With reference to the 40 billion dollar tax cut idea he said: "That would leave us with only about half enough money to support our forces even if we did not spend a penny for anything else."

A submarine now has no keel to lay. And a great deal of work already has been done toward designing the hull, gathering together and fabricating material and starting work on a land-based experimental nuclear engine like that which will drive the new submarine Nautilus when she starts her first trial run sometime in 1954.

The Navy assigned the job of building the hull of the radically new boat to a company which has been building submarines for more than half a century. Now called the General Dynamics Corporation,

U.S. Believed Having Solved H-Bomb Secret

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Sen. Brien McMahon today proposed the manufacture of 1,000 or more "hydrogen weapons" in what appeared to be a plain indication the United States has solved the secret of the fearsome H-bomb.

The Connecticut Democrat, a candidate for his party's presidential nomination, is chairman of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee and close to atomic and hydrogen developments.

The government never has announced whether it has succeeded in devising an H-bomb. But McMahon told the Connecticut State Democratic Convention that, if elected President:

"I would direct the United States Atomic Energy Commission to manufacture hydrogen weapons numbered in four figures. This would prevent war and win us time to wage peace."

"I would direct that we substitute cheap atomic and hydrogen firepower for expensive conventional firepower . . . to reduce taxes and balance the budget while we wage peace."

McMahon stressed the destructive power of the hydrogen bomb over the atomic bomb and said he did not think Soviet Premier Stalin would send his forces against this weapon.

Our Churches

Fathers To Be Honored Sunday

Churches Plan Rites In Tribute Of Parent

After celebration of Mother's Day in May and Children's Day last Sunday, the fathers of the nation will be honored with the celebration of "their" day this Sunday. Several Salem churches plan services in tribute, and other meetings during the week are of special interest to the men.

First Christian

Activities in the Christian Church include participation in the Men's Retreat at Camp Christian last weekend and the organization of a Men's Fellowship of the church next Friday. Attending the retreat were Harold Ludwig, Calvin Filler, Clifford Zimmerman, Robert Zimmerman, Irwin Beck, Lloyd Marshall, Bob Champion and Sherman Garlock.

All tickets for the Men's Fellowship dinner at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the church must be secured by Sunday noon. A special program is planned for the evening.

Special Father's Day services will be observed this Sunday at the worship service.

Meeting at 5:30 p.m. Sunday in the church for a covered supper will be members of the Gold Star Class. The Christian Youth Fellowship and Chi Rho will not meet during the summer. Choir practice will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the church.

Serving communion this Sunday will be G. P. Lozier, Glen Davis, G. Huston, I. Beck, R. Gunn, F. Schramm, C. Cooper, B. Engel, R. Stallsmith and G. Adams. Mrs. Ola Shriver, Mrs. Darrell Rowlands, Frank McConner and Mrs. Harvey Harris are on the reception committee.

First Methodist

Senior Youth Fellowship members of the Methodist Church are planning a festival from 4 to 8 tonight at the church. The young people plan this project to raise money for camp.

Dr. Carl J. Lehwald, Harry A. Loria and Mrs. Roy E. Smucker were recently nominated for the position of trustees of the church.

Rev. Theodore C. Mayer of Wooster will be the new district superintendent in the Methodist Church.

The second week of Vacation Church School starts at 9 a.m. Monday. One hundred and sixteen boys and girls and teachers are participating in the school.

First Baptist

A get-together for men and boys of the church will take place Tuesday, June 24, in the church. Moving pictures of athletic events will be shown, William Fenton Ross will perform some sleight-of-hand tricks of magic and humorous skits and special music will entertain.

Committee for the event includes Leroy Downs, Robert Hammell, Carey Jackson, George Baillie, Verne Morningstar, William Hut-ton, Gail Hutchinson, Don Ham-mell and William Ehret.

Vacation Bible School will conclude with a picnic Friday. As-sisting with the work are Mrs. Robert Hammell and Mrs. Raymond Hoffman, superintendents; Mrs. John Volio, Mrs. Norman Miller, Mrs. Gail Hutchinson and Ann Livingston for nursery and begin-ners departments.

In the primary department are Mrs. Irene Falls, Medith Morning-star, Marie Wilson and Mrs. Ira Plummer; junior, Mrs. Ray Hunt-er and Joan Frank. Drafts, Mrs. James Roessler, Mrs. V. Horning and Mrs. William Cameron. Mrs. Elwood Hammell is music direct-or. Others assisting are Miss Gloria Rowlands and Mrs. Al Kitzman.

Saturday, June 21, is the date of the festival planned by members of the Women's Christian Service League. The young people will assist the festival headed by Mrs. Medith Livingston and Mrs. Verne Morningstar.

Bible Words to Live by

JOHN 3:16 — "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

This verse is my favorite because it is so comprehensive. It is almost a miniature of the whole Gospel. It expresses God's love, his gift of Christ and the hope of redemption. While it seems to be voicing only the personal aspect of our faith, it is set in the social framework, and I like to think of that verse hanging like a picture on the walls of our minds.

take place July 30 at Firestone Park.

Baptist Youth Fellowship will meet Sunday at the Country Club.

Presbyterian

S. Royden Piper, student at Crozer Theological Seminary, Chester, Pa., who has been serving as student pastor of the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, will preach at the worship service Sunday morning in the Presbyterian Church. The Haviland Choir will sing.

Prior to attending Crozer, he received a bachelor of arts degree in English literature from Waynesburg College, Waynesburg, Pa., in 1950. He is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Vincent of E. Third St.

Due to the Sunday school picnic this Wednesday at Firestone Park, the meeting of the Women's Association has been postponed until Wednesday, June 25.

The Presbyterians will have a barbecue and "singspiration" at 7 p.m. Sunday at Centennial Park.

Church Of The Nazarene

Rev. E. M. Parks, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, will be in charge of the morning and evening services Sunday in the church.

Cottage prayer meeting Tuesday will be in the home of Charles Weaver on E. Fourth St. Prayer and Praise service will take place at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in the church.

First Friends

Daily Vacation Bible School program and closing exercises will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the First Friends Church. Father's Day will be observed following Sunday school.

The Sunday School bus will leave the church at 2 p.m. Wednesday for Firestone Park for the annual Sunday school picnic. Supper will be at 6:30.

Holy Trinity Lutheran

Baccalaureate service for Salem City Hospital Nursing School will take place at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church at 8 p.m. Sunday. "Following the Example of Jesus" will be the topic by Rev. G. D. Keister, pastor.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday the Vacation Bible School demonstration program will be held in the church and parents and friends are invited.

The district meeting of Lutheran

Men, from 12 Lutheran churches in this area, will convene in the local church at 8 p.m. Friday. Speaker will be Stu Wilson, radio commentator of radio station WKBN, Youngstown. Paul Meier is chairman of the meeting.

REFLECTIONS

Strange how a landscape sets the imagination to work. Right now, looking at this scene, I can imagine all sorts of things.

Winged steeds riding to heavy music . . . pioneers in the wilderness . . . castles on the cliffs . . . boating at high speeds.

Look at the magic that enables the lake to mirror the rocky mountain peak and the heavens! The vastness and stillness of the scene sets my mind to wondering about time and space and things I will never understand.

But in standing here and wondering so, I feel like I've been near God.

There is a place where I can find Him always—in Church. Will you come with me?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Rock That Is Higher Than I

A hymn is born in a panic

In 1873 the YMCA held a convention at Carlisle, Pa. Among notables present were Philadelphia's Church Worker-Merchant John Wannamaker; Lincoln, Maine's self-styled Poet Erastus Johnson and Philadelphia's Piano Dealer-Composer William Gustav Fischer.

Fischer was leading the singing of the first session when somebody handed Wannamaker a telegram. He read it and turned pale. Starting as errand boy at 14, John Wannamaker was Philadelphia's leading merchant at 35 and had $70,000 operating cash in the bank of Jay Cooke & Co. That's why Wannamaker turned pale... the telegram said Jay Cooke had closed his bank.

Financial Wizard Jay Cooke went into banking at 17. At 40 his firm handled federal bonds for financing the Civil War to the then staggering amount of $2,500,000,000. When America started building transcontinental railroads Cooke & Co. went all out behind the Northern Pacific. But in 1873 the bottom dropped out of Northern Pacific bonds and Cooke went bankrupt. When Jay Cooke went down, scores of Wall Street firms went with him, the panic of 1873 was on and 23,000 businesses across the country folded up.

While Wannamaker was reading his telegram similar messages came to others and the convention took on a pall of gloom. But Poet Erastus Johnson had no fortune to lose. He nor any of his 12 brothers and sisters ever used tobacco, alcohol, profanity "nor got rich," he said. But Johnson had sympathy for those who did face financial ruin. Taking as a theme a line from the 61st Psalm, "When my heart is overwhelmed, lead me to the Rock that is Higher than I," he wrote a poem of encouragement. Song-leader Fischer set the verses to music and led the convention delegates in singing the new hymn.

Jay Cooke figured his way out of the panic, reopened his bank and paid off in full, with interest. John Wannamaker kept up his YMCA and church work, served a term as postmaster general under President Harrison, expanded to New York and entrenched his name in American merchandising. William Fischer wrote music for many another hymn, including Kate Hankey's "I Love To Tell The Story," and James Nicholson's "Whiter Than Snow," before he died in 1912. Erastus Johnson, who as a young man had sailed around the Horn to operate a ranch in California, stayed in Pennsylvania and went into the oil business. He died at 83 in Waltham, Mass., in 1909.

Jay Cooke has gone down in history as "The Financier of the Rebellion" and, for his day, the most famous banker in America. He died in 1885 at age 84, probably never dreaming that conditions brought about by his greatest financial crisis inspired the writing of a grand old hymn that has "helped to comfort many a sad heart."

O sometimes the shadows are deep,
And rough seems the path to the goal,
And sorrows, sometimes how they sweep,
Like tempests down over the soul!

O sometimes how long seems the day,
And sometimes how weary the feet;
But toiling in life's dusty way,
The Rock's blessed shadow, how sweet!

O near to the Rock let me keep,
If blessings or sorrows prevail,
Or climbing the mountain way steep,
Or walking the shadowy vale.

(Refrain)

O then to the Rock let me fly,
To the Rock that is higher than I;
O then to the Rock let me fly,
To the Rock that is higher than I!

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Get What You Want

SAT CH PG : CONFIDENT—

Recently, I had occasion to visit a friend of mine. He had been a classmate of mine at Ohio Wesleyan and I shall never forget how he looked when he appeared at school for the opening of our first term. His trousers were about half way between his shoes and his knees. His arms hung out of his coat sleeves. He even wore one of those celluloid collars which didn't have to be laundered, but were just wiped off every day. His shoes were covered with mud.

When he told us where he came from, few of us knew the town. It was so small that the trains didn't stop there at all. And its people, including our classmate, were as poor as the proverbial church mouse.

But badly-dressed and poor as he was, this boy had two assets: Character and one of the keenest minds I have ever encountered. Soon he was able to make the boys who scorned him as a freshman look ridiculous; in our classes, he outshone us all.

TODAY, MANY American women in their housework use a machine he developed. His character and brilliance have made him one of the greatest manufacturers in the country.

In the course of my visit with him I asked, "How did you build this fortune from the kind of beginning you had?"

"I didn't do it," he replied. "All the people who work for me did it. And this country of course gave me the opportunity to start from the bottom and get somewhere."

"Yes," I said. "I know all that. But what technique did you use, personally?"

"Well, what I've always done is to take a problem and shake it to pieces with my mind. Then I bring all the mental power I've got to bear upon it. Next, I pray about it with all my heart. I follow up by painting a mental picture of succeeding with it. And, always; I ask myself, 'Is this the right thing to do?' It will never go over if it isn't right. Last, but not least, I go out and give it everything I've got."

What have you here? Nothing except a simple series of basic principles used by a man who believes and who brings to bear on his undertakings the keystones of the kingdom of God: Faith in his own mind, faith not to see failure, faith to use creative power.

HENRY KAISER once told me of a great storm which wrecked a building project on which he had been working. The next morning, he found his workmen standing around, looking at the sea of mud. "What makes you so unhappy?" he asked them. "Don't you see what's happened? Everything's buried in mud," they said.

"There's no mud where I'm looking," he told them, pointing to the sky. "There's only sunshine. No mud in the world can stand against sunshine. You'll see; it'll soon dry up the mud. Sunshine comes from God. If you wait awhile, you can dig up the machinery and start again."

Want To Hear A Noise

Best evidence that Sen. Taft and the professional fighting men who dare to side with him against foreign aid as America's No. 1 duty know what they are talking about is the noise made by the opposition.

It is composed—this opposition—of all the people who have swallowed the military decisions of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations whole. Some of them are writhing with indignation as the result, but they are still willing to fire a Gen. MacArthur or an Adm. Denham to save face. They can throw a Capt. Crommelin to the wolves, freeze out a Gen. Wedemeyer, or whoop it up for a universal military training law if that's what it takes to prove they have all the answers to the national security problem and their critics have no answers at all. They can even make sure that Gen. Eisenhower's last comment before putting aside his uniform is to seem to uphold their point of view.

And just what is their point of view?

Essentially, it is this: That no one shall criticize their evaluation of massed infantry as the main reliance of the non-communist bloc. They have set up a closed corporation of ideas, dedicated to the credo that they will continue to do everything their way even if it means sending millions of U.S. troops overseas, with Europe having first call.

All that Sen. Taft has done is to assert they don't know what they are doing; that America's No. 1 duty is to build the world's best air force, that its No. 2 duty is to develop an army and navy adequate for its own defense and that its No. 3 duty is foreign aid, including aid with U.S. infantry.

This seems reasonable enough, until the howls and bleats of protest start echoing from Washington. Whenever that happens, it's plain that Sen. Taft has grabbed hold of the Democratic jackass where the hair is short.

Shadow Of A Coming Event

Somewhere between the uneasiness of those who expect the economy to fall apart like a one-hoss shay and those who claim a collapse has been made impossible by government controls lies the shape of the economic future.

One thing about it is a certainty. It will not be the same as the past. The rate of business activity will be higher or lower. Taxes will be higher or lower. The rate of public spending will be higher or lower.

When these changes happen, moreover, they will have an effect on politics. That may or may not be the reason why Harry Truman decided he did not want to run for the presidency; some think he shied away from the prospect of the same deflation which was threatening to overtake the country before Communist invasion of Korea changed a slump into a boom.

The changes will have an effect on public policy. Taxes, for example. A slump would be aggravated by a too-sudden reduction of government spending for the obvious reason that the spending is a kind of subsidy for high employment and sale of U.S. exports abroad.

It will be seven months before the next national administration takes office—more than four months before the next President is elected. Before either of these coming events can take place much more will be known about another event which will overshadow both of them—the reaction from the war boom set off by the Communist invasion of Korea.

Once Bitten, Twice Shy

If Western ethics could stand the strain, the way to handle the Red prisoner trouble on Kojima Island would be to arm the non-Red prisoners and let them shoot it out.

As it is, the Reds have managed to give the impression they are in a heavy majority, which is what the Kremlin wants the world to think. There is more at stake than the fate of the prisoners, themselves.

Unless the Kremlin can nail down its asserted right to dominate the lives of all people who have been under its rule, the communist conspiracy will be crushed by wholesale desertions.

After World War II, the Kremlin hornsogled a compliant American government into turning over prisoners who had been captured by the Germans on the eastern front. Since many of these prisoners had given themselves up to get away from the Communist dictatorship, their forced return to the dictatorship was an act of bad faith which the United States never will live down in Europe.

Fortunately, it is determined not to repeat the mistake in Asia.

A man drew a 10-year sentence for robbing a sorority house—about the stiffest initiation we've ever heard of.

An Illinois mother of two children will graduate from college—and then stay home and learn a lot more.

A shaky reputation usually is built on things a person is going to do.

Threat In Italy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Communist Party Has Big Membership

Communism outside the "iron curtain" has its greatest strength in Italy—more than 2,225,000 members—and poses here its biggest threat in Europe to the continuance of democracy.

The problem is not one for Italy alone—her government cannot cope with it unless the other free governments in Europe cooperate. For, while there is today no such solidarity among the free governments in the matter of anti-Communist strategy where ideological intrigue is concerned.

To get at the facts of the situation, this correspondent talked with Mario Scelba, Italian minister of the interior, who has done more than anybody else to combat Communist activities, and also canvassed other persons in Italy who can be regarded as influential and powerful in the anti-Communist battle.

First of all, there is no secret about the fact that the activities of the Communist party in Italy are supervised and directed by the Soviet government. Secondly, the average member of the Communist party is not only aware of the Soviet direction of party affairs but seeks such sponsorship on the theory that the issues sought by communism on the domestic side here cannot be achieved without Russia's help.

THE ITALIAN Communist party is financed through Communist newspapers, which collect money from their readers and friends by a process of intimidation and by exaggerated promises of future benefits, and through contributions from middlemen or business concerns engaged in trade with the iron curtain countries. A certain commission on all transactions goes into the party fund. Millions of lire were spent by the Communists in the recent election campaign.

The general situation has been made worse by the peculiar tactics of the "neo-Fascists" who, though claiming to be opposed to communism, are now engaged in trying to weaken the free government of Italy—which is exactly what the Communists have as their major objective. It is significant that only about 10 per cent of the activity of the Fascists in the recent campaign was directed at the Communists.

The Fascist movement is being financed by groups of industrialists and landowners, who find ready allies among those elements which want the return of a monarchy so as to get what they regarded as needed—a stronger government in Rome. There is among them a yearning for the alleged stability of the Mussolini era and a selfish desire to get back into power. None of these businessmen, by the way, were recipients of Marshall Plan aid and know their Fascist connections will keep them in the doghouse if the present regime continues in power.

NATIONALISTIC issues are being used to foment pro-Fascist sentiment. Thus, the controversy over the recovery of Trieste is a big issue. The Allied indifference to Italy's claim for Trieste is capitalized on the stump. Italians point to the fact that 600,000 of their compatriots died for Trieste in the first world war and to their own military help to the Allies in the last year of World War II, and say this entitles them to better consideration than a Communist leader in Yugoslavia. Anyway, the issue cannot be allowed to drift without settlement, as it is making Fascist votes right along.

Whether to deal more firmly by law with Fascists and Communists has been debated inside the Italian cabinet. In certain circles, including the Vatican, there is a feeling that there hasn't been enough firmness exhibited by the De Gasperi government against the Communists and Fascists.

The answer made to this is that it would have been politically suicidal to have attempted by legal measures to outlaw the Communist party earlier than now.

What has happened in the last two weeks in France is an inspiration, but, as one Italian official wistfully remarked, they don't hope to be able to catch any Italian Communist leader with the goods in the middle of a riot, as they did Jacques Duclos in France. The Italian communist leadership is believed to be too smart for that.

But there are laws about to be passed which will harass both Communist and Fascist agitators. The laws would give the government discretionary power to arrest Communist leaders for treason against the state and to prosecute them for distributing propaganda designed to overthrow the Italian democracy.

But, above all, there is a recognition of how helpless Italy is to do the whole job alone. There is criticism, for example, here against the British for failing to coordinate their policy with that of Italy and other countries.

THUS, WHEN the United States announced that no delegates would be sent to the Moscow economic conference, Italy followed suit—only to be taunted by the Italian Communists, who pointed to the fact that England was sending a delegation. Italy then had to back down and send some delegates, too.

Britain has been dragging her feet on the whole anti-Communist business and, if France and Italy are to do an effective job in ridding themselves of those who are engaged in an internal conspiracy against their form of government, it will require coordination and teamwork among the foreign offices of all free countries.

Anti-Fossilizing

By TRUMAN TWILL

A retired army colonel who is graduating this June from University of Southern California at the ripe age of 65 with a Phi Beta Kappa key to his credit believes more oldsters should take a crack at advanced education.

He thinks it would slow up the fossilizing process. Another way of looking at it is that continuous education would speed up the mental stimulation which is the best hope for keeping this good society a safe distance ahead of its competitors in the individual development of its citizens.

It is not necessary to go back to school to do this. The job can be done in a number of ways; formal schooling is only one of them—the best one, because it gives the learner a chance to concentrate.

But the privilege of doing it the easy way is usually restricted to the young, who are not yet involved in the distracting task of making a living. Oldsters who go back to school are rare exceptions and always will be.

Oldsters who keep on cultivating their minds do not need to be rare exceptions, however. Virtually everybody in this nation of books, school, easy communications and growing leisure could take a crack at advanced education for the trying. There is no excuse for ignorance in America.

Ignorance, here, does not refer to illiteracy. It refers, rather, to a very special kind of ignorance found among people who read, write, earn a living and are articulate about their views, yet have ceased to think. Many of them have earned degrees from colleges.

All they know, aside from what is rammed down their throats against their will, is what little they remember from their far-off days of formal education. They have carried on no systematic cultivation of their minds since then.

It is as though they had built a house, moved into it and never spent any money to arrest its obsolescence, or even to slow up its rate of depreciation. Their middle-aged minds are shabby and unattractive. What is worse, they sometimes have deteriorated into slums. They just don't give a whoop.

Few of them could spare the time to go back to college, and fewer would be willing to make the effort. But that does not bar them from access to education, unless they are willing to surrender to the fossilizing process.

They can still learn. Because they are on their own, they can learn selectively, without regard to official requirements. They can take up whatever interests them most, with the sole purpose of averting the walking dead which befalls human beings who lose interest.

Education for the young can have only one purpose in the long run—to impart to the young a habit which will serve them well as they grow older. If they don't use it for that purpose they might as well have played hooky.

The kids were just as enthusiastic about school letting out as mothers weren't.

Another Triumph of Communist Efficiency

Prisoners Of War

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

SAT : PRISONERS OF— The current difficulties which we have been facing in Korea are an outcome of our curious handling of prisoners of war at the end of World War II. A precedent was set for turning prisoners of war over to Soviet Russia without regard to what might happen to them afterwards.

Section VI of Proclamation No. 2 of the Allied Control Authority (control council), dated at Berlin September 20, 1945, and signed by B. L. Montgomery, field marshal; L. Koeltz, V. D. Sokolovsky and Dwight D. Eisenhower, reads as follows in part:

"19. (a) The German authorities will carry out, for the benefit of the United Nations, such measures of restitution, reinstatement, restoration, reparation, reconstruction, relief and rehabilitation as the Allied representatives may prescribe. For these purposes the German authorities will effect or procure the surrender or transfer of such property, assets, rights, titles and interests, effect such deliveries and carry out such repair, building and construction work, whether in Germany or elsewhere, and will provide such transport, plant, equipment and materials of all kinds, labor, personnel and specialist and other services, for use in Germany or elsewhere, as the Allied representatives may direct."

THIS, the Russians have interpreted as justifying their position that an entire people could be enslaved to a conquering power. It was under this provision that German scientists were taken to Russia to do Stalin's work.

Note the words: "Labor, personnel, and specialist and other services, for use in Germany or elsewhere, as the Allied representatives may direct."

UNDER THESE provisions no military or civilian officer or even citizen can ever claim that he obeyed his superior. No lieutenant can say that he obeyed his colonel; no assistant secretary of state can ever say that he obeyed the president.

The precedent set under these agreements will continue to be raised in every conference over prisoners of war. The conferences were careful to define their terms, to lay down the rules and to spell out the definitions. Nothing is left to chance. No person can beg off on the grounds that he obeyed his commander-in-chief.

We live in a curious era during which we actually know little that occurs when it occurs. The news of the world is censored—more than it has been in any war during the 19th and 20th centuries. It is only when documents are made available that those who have the patience to go through heavy volumes find the documentation of our troubles.

The indisputable fact stands out that in many matters, the Russians have a document signed by an American representative giving them authority to commit the outrages against which we now have to protest.

So we return to the matter of the Korean prisoners of war. We have hardly any precise information about what has been happening at Panmunjom. The little news reports that come from there are hardly informative.

Apparently the prolonged stalemate is over prisoners of war. Are the Soviet Chinese and their Russian advisers using the above quoted documents as a basis for discussion? If so, we are in real trouble.

Dark Horse Choice

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Almost a year ago I published a statement that if the Republican Convention should be deadlocked by Taft and Eisenhower a certain chain of logic might well lead to the selection of Sen. Knowland.

There were raised eyebrows when I mentioned the idea both in the East and in California. The same logic, however, prevails now, a year later, and the possibility is enlarged by a number of things that have happened since.

It seemed at the time Sen. Taft would certainly have the opposition of Eisenhower and the general would be actively supported by the Republicans of many states in the East and Far West. It seemed that Taft would easily gather something over four hundred delegates and then find the going very hard in adding the necessary two hundred.

It seemed unlikely that Eisenhower could get the magic number of six hundred and that he would be fought to the end by the Taft supporters. Hence the likelihood of exasperated delegates searching for somebody to nominate who could cement the party and win the election.

At such time the logical sequence indicated that delegates looking for a way out would find the large California delegation a find center around which to gather a majority. It seemed to me that those delegates, who might be classed as organization Republicans as well as the Taft leaders, would never agree on Warren.

At such a moment the remarkable suitability of Knowland would appear and Warren who is essentially a generous man as well as a shrewd politician would accept this solution and throw his weight on the side of winning the great prize for his state.

It was apparent then, as it was for some years before, that Knowland was a loyal Republican who thoroughly believed in party government. His views on domestic issues could be regarded as moderately conservative, well to the right of Morse and Lodge and slightly to the left of Taft.

No member of Congress had made such an intensive study of Far Eastern affairs. No one had been a more effective critic of the Truman-Marshall-Acheson conduct of Asiatic affairs. Moreover Knowland had taken a fair and moderate approach to the problem of aid to Europe.

He could not possibly be regarded by Eastern Republicans as an isolationist. For these and other reasons it seemed like a reasonable possibility a year ago that Knowland might the man.

The events of the past year have added to these potentials. First the President removed Gen. MacArthur and thus precipitated a battle in which Knowland played a notable part. The entry of MacArthur into the political arena makes it certain that the Asiatic issue will be prominent in the campaign and there is no reason why MacArthur would not throw his support to Knowland if it should appear that Taft cannot make the grade.

Finally and most important has been the result in the California primary on June 3. Knowland not only swept both primaries for the senatorial nomination but he piled up a vote that was an amazing proof of personal popularity. In the Republican primary he received in round numbers 1,500,000 votes. His opponent received 140,000.

In the Democratic primary he had 950,000, his opponent 630,000.

Letters for Special Delivery

(Russia has billed the United States for $14,000,000 for phone service from Berlin to West Germany.—News item.)

Dear Joe: Well, I just got your phone bill. I knew it cost more to use the telephone than it used to, and any phone bill always startles me, but this fourteen-million-dollar one strikes me as extra stiff. Did I exceed the three-minute period on a couple of toll-line calls from a pay station or something? I wish you would check and send me a complete list of calls and also be sure you have not got my phone bill mixed up with the lady next door.

Your action, Joe, knocks in the head your claim you want peace. Nobody who wants peace sends another guy a fourteen-million-dollar telephone bill. I have known terrible fights to break out over phone bills that were nowhere near that big. A phone bill of that size could start a war, and all the sympathy would be on the side that got it. From the very start you would have even the satellites saying, "Let's throw Joe overboard. He's the fellow who talks about brotherly love and sends out phone bills that knock your eye out."

As if the bill wasn't enough you send out a pretty nasty letter saying it is long overdue, and that you will cut the service if payment isn't made by return mail. I once knew a very peaceful man who was turned into a combination of "Bull" Halsey and Gen. McAuliffe by a bill that had that kind of a note attached. (Always after that it took a riot squad to pacify him when he got mad.)

You have been badly advised in this matter, Joe. Yes, the note came from the East German government, but everybody knows you run that end of the line. The fellow who told you to send it should be purged as he has driven every telephone subscriber on earth over to my side in a body. And, on the level, wouldn't Russia look awful in a headline that screamed "MOSCOW GOES TO WAR TO COLLECT PHONE BILL." Think it over.

Yours,
Uncle Sam.

P.S.—Fair warning, if you send me a gas and electric light bill it will be the last straw.

Daily Pre-Nuptial Parties

Honor Miss Barbara Wilson

Parties every day until her wedding are on the pre-nuptial schedule for Miss Barbara Wilson, who will become the bride of Scott M. Corkhill Saturday, June 21, in the Church of Our Saviour.

The garden of the home of Mrs. Nelson Works on S. Lincoln will be the scene of a breakfast Wednesday for the bride-to-be. Guests were various members of the bridal party, their mothers, and relatives of the Wilsons. Kitchen items were presented Miss Wilson in the shower.

Mrs. C. Dixon Harris of E. State St. entertained at a mother-daughter party honoring her niece. Attendants and their mothers were among the guests at the luncheon and bridge affair. Flowers from the garden were used in the home decoration.

Young friends of the bride-elect were guests at the luncheon party Friday for Miss Wilson at the home of Mrs. Guy E. Byers on E. State St. Roses from the Byers garden formed the centerpiece at the table where the party was seated. Aprons were the useful gifts showered on Miss Wilson.

Party Fetes Couple Wed 50 Years

Miss Marilyn Lipp registered the more than 200 guests who were greeted by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lipp of North Lima, Thursday in Pavilion 4 at Firestone Park in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The enjoyable party was arranged by the children of the couple, Evas Lipp of Salem, Walter of Lisbon, Lester of Barborton, Kenneth of Buffalo and Mrs. Carl Kyser of Columbiana. Assisting were their daughters-in-law.

Gold and white was the reception color theme. Refreshments were served at a linen-laid table centered with a beautiful arrangement of peace and talisman roses. The cake served to the guests by Mrs. Kyser of Leetonia was bordered with orange blossoms.

Other friends assisting were Mrs. Clarence Seidner, Mrs. Ruth Duke, Mrs. James Wright, Mrs. Dale Wolfgang, Mrs. Lyle Meek and Miss June Kyser.

Group pictures were taken to commemorate the event. Five generations filmed included Mrs. Lewis Lipp of Youngstown, 94-year-old mother of Harry Lipp, Mr. Lipp, Walter Lipp, Mrs. William Spooner and Nancy Spooner.

The Lippes received gifts, cards, money and flowers from their friends and a television set from their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Entertaining were Kay Lipp and Mrs. Herman Welsh, who sang to piano accompaniment by Mrs. Richard Brundard. Old-fashioned songs also were sung by the group.

Preceding the reception was a family dinner at Barnetts. Mrs. Lewis Lipp also attended the dinner. Garden flowers were used gifts showered on Miss Wilson.

Grangers Eulogize Deceased Members

Members of Willow Grove Grange participated in a memorial service, eulogizing grangers who have died, at the meeting Friday evening in the hall. The 23d Psalm by Mrs. Bryan Sanor, chaplain, opened the service.

"Love for Our Dead" was presented by Mrs. Raymond Oesch. Lloyd Sanor, master, and Mrs. Virgil Edgerton, secretary, conducted a memorial exercise.

Miss Eva Sanor and Mrs. William Sherwood, dressed in white and assisted by the chaplain, took part in an impressive candle and flower march with Paul Rohr soloist for the hymns.

Garden flowers were arranged with candles and intertwined with white streamers to represent the Garden of Paradise in the symbolic service. Donnette Sanor represented the angel in the candlelighting memorial.

A quartet comprised of Rev. S. S. Brantingham, Mr. Rohr, Willard Yengling and Albert Althouse sang, accompanied by Mrs. Brantingham. Mrs. Zern Aikens gave the reading, "Crossing the Bar," and the chaplain pronounced the benediction.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Don Sanor, lecturer. The next meeting, June 27, will be presented by 4-H Club girls and their leader, Mrs. Oesch.

Phillip F. Murray of Salem graduated Wednesday from the University of Pittsburgh's School of Pharmacy. He was among 2,000 persons who received diplomas at the spring graduation.

Salem Man's Nieces Wed In New York

James E. Britt escorted his niece, the former Greta Mae Gallewicz to the altar when she was married Sunday afternoon to Harold R. Morine in the Fredonia (N. Y.) Baptist Church.

The bride, who is well-known in Salem through visits here with the Britt, shared the wedding spotlight with her sister, Miss Janine Anne Gallewicz, who was married to Glenn Essex in the double ceremony performed by Rev. C. Alyn Russell, assisted by Philip Essex, a student at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse A. Gallewicz of Pomfret, N.Y., are the parents of the brides, who were gownned in white organdy in the ballerina style. Their veils were of French illusion. Mrs. Essex carried white roses and Mrs. Morine white gladioli.

The reception for 175 guests was held in the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Essex are honeymooning in Cap Cod and Indiana, while Mr. and Mrs. Morine traveled to Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Essex was selected for the ated on the Saturday before her wedding from Fredonia Teachers College, where her husband will enter his senior year next fall. Both Mr. and Mrs. Morine are attending Fredonia Teachers College.

Charlotte Putnam Landers awards by her college instructors for scholarship and contribution to the life of the college.

Sewing Project Selected By C.D.A.

Sewing for various hospitals was selected as the project of the Catholic Daughters of America when about 50 persons met in the K. of C. Hall Thursday evening.

Newly elected president Mrs. Samuel Caporella presided over the meeting when the group decided to meet Wednesday, June 25, with Mrs. Bernard DeCrown to work on the hospital sewing.

Serving refreshments were Mrs. Leonard Jones, Mrs. Charles Jackson, Mrs. Urban Lepping, Mrs. Earl Yeager, Mrs. Lloyd Scott, Mrs. Ernest Bruderly, Mrs. Stephen Gonda, Mrs. August Benedict, Mrs. DeCrown, and Mrs. William Strabala.

District Deputy Irene Milliron of Warren will install officers Thursday evening, July 10, the next scheduled meeting.

Mrs. Lloyd Scott was presented a past grand regent's emblem. Card games were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Conroy (bridge), Mrs. Deal Laxelle (five canasta),

Trinity Lutheran Group To Attend Conference

Nancy Fife, Patty Jurczak, Mary Catherine Whitehill and Roy Nichols of the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church will attend the Lutheran Youth Conference at Wittenburg College, Springfield, June 13-15.

Speakers at the conference will be Rev. Carveth Mitchell, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, Mansfield, Dr. C. C. Stoughton, president of the college, and Dr. G. Elson Ruff, editor of the Lutheran Magazine. The theme of the conference will be "The Way, My Work, Our World."

Columbus Farms Meet Cleveland Ace Poloists Here Sunday Wins Ninth Game

The Salem Polo Club will encounter the newest polo team in Ohio at 3 p.m. Sunday at the local field when they trade goals with Columbus Farms.

Newly organized just 10 miles from Columbus, the Farm's team is comprised of former players of other Penn-Ohio League teams. The team is a member of the National Polo Association and each member of the squad is a rated player with the association.

Hal and Jimmy Everett, two players who are familiar to Salem fans since they played here with the locals three years ago, will play Nos. 4 and 2, respectively, for the visitors. The father-son combination will join horses with Otis Harris and Al Holman, former Columbus Harbor Hills players.

Harris starred continually for the Harbor Hills outfit last season and Holman is considered a great player. The latter played football at Ohio State University in the 1930's, and also captained the OSU polo team. Harris and Holman have recently bought eight new horses from Texas and will display the animals here Sunday along with six other head.

THE SALEM crew will mount its usual team with the addition of Roy Bates, former Ligonier rider. Bates will be playing the fourth position along with Roy Fryan for the Sunday game with the other regulars of Willie Smith, Jim Pidgeon, Tony Sheen and Max Nemic.

Bates recently purchased four new horses from Jack Kenny, who also played with the Ligonier outfit which did not form this year. Bates will bring the four here. Jack Kenny may also be with the team in a few weeks but will not be riding Sunday. Jim Watson, who played a few games with the locals last season, may also see action later this summer.

Following this Sunday's game, the locals will encounter Poland the next Sunday and then see action away from home for the following two weeks.

Araujo Winner Over King In 10-Round Bout

NEW YORK (AP)—Winner George Araujo and split-decision loser Arthur King both are screaming today for a lightweight title shot with the winner of the Lauro Salas-Jimmy Carter rematch.

"We want the championship next," yelled Frankie Travis, Araujo's manager in the Madison Square Garden dressing room last night after his widely-boomed win over King. "We fought everybody in the way. We deserve it."

At ringside, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, King's long-distance manager, was offering a $30,000 guarantee for a Toronto title scrap between Lil' Arthur and the Salas-Carter winner.

Palermo said the Salas-Carter bout is all set for the Garden Aug. 27 during the American Legion convention. The International Boxing Club that holds the rematch contract has made no announcement. Los Angeles wants it back where little Salas, the Mexican jumping bean, won the crown from Carter, May 14.

Was King interested in a rematch with Araujo? "He beat him last night," said Palermo. "Why ask for another?" Palermo may think his man won the 10-rounder last night but the officials had another idea of the fight. Referee Petey Scalzo voted for Araujo, 21-year-old Providence jumping jack, 6-4.

Judge Bert Grant found for Araujo 5-4-1 and Judge Joe Agnello had King a 6-4 winner. The AP card had King ahead 5-4-1. So did most of the small crowd of 2,576. Araujo weighed 135½, King 136¼.

Cubs Rout Braves In Other Contest

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Husky Mike Garcia of the Cleveland Indians, gunning for his second straight 20-victory harvest, is way ahead of his time table.

The powerful 28-year-old right-hander just made the charmed circle last year but at the rate he's going now he'll breeze in with plenty to spare.

Garcia recorded his ninth and most impressive victory of the season last night, beating the world champion New York Yankees, 7-1 in the only American League game. Last year at this time the Californian of Mexican extraction possessed a mediocre 5-4 record card.

The "Bear," as he's called by his teammates, stifled the Yanks on four hits, walked only two, struck out ten, batted in two runs and scored two in topping the Yanks' best, Alie Reynolds.

Garcia's near air-tight performance, his only slip came in the seventh when he served a home run ball to Yogi Berra, knocked the New Yorkers out of first place.

The Bombers slipped to second with the Boston Red Sox taking over the lead by .0004 of a percentage point. The Indians are a close third.

Garcia nursed a 2-1 lead until the eighth when the Indians jumped Reynolds for five runs with two out. Jim Hegan's pop fly single brought home the first two runs. Garcia followed with a two-run double and scored the fifth run on a single by Harry Simpson.

The loss snapped a six-game New York winning streak. Bob Rush, another big right-hander, came up with a brilliant 5-0 three-hit victory for the Chicago Cubs over the Boston Braves in the National League's only game.

Rush walked four and fanned 11 in posting his ninth triumph and fourth shutout. The Cubs tucked the game away in the first inning, pouncing on Vern Bickford for four runs on three singles, a pair of walks and a fly ball.

Bob Addis, a former Brave, led Chicago's nine hit attack with four singles. The victory enabled the Cubs, who have won 16 out of their last 20 starts, to move to within seven percentage points of the second place New York Giants.

Burley Early Wynn hurled for Cleveland today as the Indians try to crack again the pitching staff which New York Yankee manager Casey Stengel calls "solid—all down the line."

Wynn, whose 7-4 mark is second best on the Indians' mound staff, will oppose Vic Raschi, 5-2. Wynn hasn't tried the Yanks yet this year. Raschi lost here, 7-2, May 7, but has won three straight since then.

Hot Stove League Tryouts Monday
Current plans for the Hot Stove League of Salem is to form three teams here and another in Washingtonville, it was decided at a meeting Thursday night with Sy Butler, president of the national league.

Some 40 boys, 12- to 15-year-olds, were present at the meeting. The initial tryout is slated for 6:30 Monday evening at Copacia Field on the Depot Rd. The loop is scheduled to get underway June 23.

Woods, Court Class AA Leaders In First Round

Battling ten times and rapping out five hits, Ken Woods of Butler Grange is leading the Class AA batters with an even .500 average.

The Butler Grange outfielder is atop the loop after the initial six games, comprising the first round of play. The Salem Amvets and Bliss are tied for the lead with records of 5-1 while the Grangers, Gil and Chucks and Demings are deadlocked for the third place.

Mullins and Sanitary are bringing up the rear with 1-5 marks.

Del Court, Bliss third baseman, has total of 10 bingles while batting 22 times for the second place position with an average of .455. Another Butler Granger, Jerry Mountz, is currently hitting third with a .385 average, while Dick Ehrhardt of Demings, Dempsey Balsey of the Amvets and Sam Pridon of Bliss follow with averages of .375, .375 and .368, respectively.

Pridon is also the leading home run hitter with three blasts to his credit. Mike Guappone, Kirby Laughlin and Balsey each had rapped two homers.

Averages were figured with the hitters batting ten or more times and hitting over .250.

Team averages go to Bliss with .256, while Demings is a close second with .248. Mullins, tied for last place, is holding third with a .229 clouting mark and the Amvets fourth with .213.

County Baseball Playoffs Set

Columbiana To Play Salem In First Game

COLUMBIANA—County championship games among the four teams of the Columbiana County American Legion Junior Baseball League will be played at Firestone Park Saturday and Sunday, June 28 and 29, with doubleheaders each day. Columbiana will play Salem and East Palestine will play East Liverpool the first day, and the winners will play the winners and the losers will play the losers the second day.

All parts of the county were represented at the meeting Thursday evening in the Columbiana Legion home when dates for the county championship games were set. Denny Galehouse of Boyles-town, former Cleveland Indian pitcher, baseball arbiter for the 10th District of the Ohio department of the Legion, said he expected to be in Columbiana for the county championship games.

The tri-state tournament, to be held in East Palestine this year, is scheduled to begin June 29, the second day of the county championship games here.

A HORSE SHOW to be held at Jack Kane farm No. 2 between Columbiana and North Lima on Route 164 Sunday, was decided upon at the June meeting of the Columbiana Saddle & Bridle Club Thursday evening at the home of its president, Glen Kyser of Lisbon Rd.

Clayton Dyke of Columbiana took a bus load of the Peppy Pals 4-H Club of Fairfield Township to East Liverpool Thursday for the Ohio River boat ride.

Edgar Moser, Columbiana Boy Scout leader, is directing a camp at the county scout reservation north of Lisbon this weekend.

Open church will be observed in the Methodist Church at 3:30 p.m. Sunday for the marriage of Miss Phyllis Jane Wisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wisler

Sr., west of town on the Leetonia Rd., and Richard Staley, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Staley of Piqua, Ohio. Rev. W. S. Longworth, pastor of the church, will officiate. The Children's Day program will be given at the Methodist Church at 10:45 a.m., Sunday.

REV. JAMES STULL of Youngstown, recent seminary graduate, will preach in Jerusalem Lutheran Church at 10:45 a.m. Sunday in the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. A. Anderson, who will preach at a rededication service in Zion Lutheran Church, Rio, W. Va.

Rev. Mr. Anderson will also attend next week, Monday through Friday, a meeting of the eastern district of the American Lutheran Church in Penn Hall School, Chambersburg, Pa.

Rev. W. S. Longworth of Columbiana, youth director for the Steubenville Methodist district, and Larry Bailey of Columbiana, president of the district Youth Fellowship, will attend a conference of workers with youth Sunday through Wednesday for the Northeast Ohio Conference Methodist Youth Fellowship training course in progress at Mt. Union College, Alliance.

Bouquets were made of flowers, taken by members to the June meeting of the Columbiana W.C.T.U., at the home of Mrs. Cora Vanskiver of 517 Fairfield Ave., Thursday afternoon and delivered to the homes of all known sick persons.

Cynthia Bean Woodward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Woodward, 416 N. Main St., was graduated June 8 at the 138th commencement of Emma Willard School, Troy, N. Y.

Ingrid Bergman's Daughter Says She Doesn't Love Her Mother

LOS ANGELES (U) — Thirteen-year-old Pia Lindstrom doesn't love her screen-star mother, Ingrid Bergman. She doesn't miss her and doesn't want to go to Italy to visit her.

"I haven't seen her enough to really love her," Pia told a woman judge yesterday. "My father has mostly been taking care of me."

The judge, Mildred L. Lillie, is considering Ingrid's plea to bring Pia to Rome for a summer visit. The move is being fought by the actress' ex-husband, neurosurgeon Peter Lindstrom.

"I don't think she cares about me too much," Pia testified of her mother at a two-hour closed hearing.

"She didn't seem very interested about me when she left. It was only after she left and got married and had children that she suddenly decided she wanted me."

Miss Bergman has a 2-year-old son, born out of wedlock, by her present husband, Italian film director Roberto Rossellini. She is in a Rome hospital awaiting the birth of twins.

"I don't love her—I like her," blue-eyed Pia testified.

"And you don't miss her?" Ingrid's lawyer asked.

"No."

"Don't you have a desire to see her?"

"No. I would rather live with my father."

Miss Bergman's attorney, Gregson Bantz, asked Pia if she understood "what your mother is seeking to do in this case."

"Yes. She wants me to come to Italy—and I don't want to go to Italy."

She denied that her father had ever told her she shouldn't go to Italy.

The girl—who is still called Pia though her name has been legally changed to Jenny Ann—recalled Rossellini's visit at the Lindstrom home in Beverly Hills in February, 1949. She was then 10.

"I didn't like him. I didn't dislike him. I just didn't have any..." She didn't complete the sentence.

She said she and her father discussed that Rossellini "used to stand in front of the fireplace and tell how religious he was."

"He borrowed all my father's money and bought presents for me with my father's money."

Roving Reports By HAL BOYLE

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (U)—Ivan Ivanovich is going to the Olympics.

And the entire sports world is buzzing with gossip about what will happen to the Russian teams at Helsinki next month.

The decision to let Soviet athletes compete in the international games puts the Politburo to its supreme test. The Communist leaders have held that their ideology has given Russia the world's greatest science, art, and literature.

Now they are going to show that ideology also builds better bodies. Is a Communist muscle necessarily better than a liberty-loving muscle? The Soviet athletes are being sent to prove this. And it's not a pleasant spot to be in. They must feel like old Roman gladiators, told to win or face the consequences—a down-turned thumb.

Soviet athletes take their training seriously. One report is they keep in shape by reading Karl Marx all morning, and then taper off in the afternoon by wrestling live bears. Before going to bed they relax by doing full knee bends with a copy of the life of Stalin on each shoulder.

They will be alerted to any possible Western trickery. In this respect they can get a few tips from Comrade Mikhail Botvinnik, the world chess champion.

Botvinnik ordinarily gets ready for a big match in Russia by walking, running and cycling. But he takes extraordinary measures to prepare himself for competition outside his own country.

A Russian chess expert recently described his strange methods as follows:

"Before Botvinnik plays a match in a Western country, he spends three weeks with a companion, working out problems while a radio blares in the background and his companion blows smoke in his face."

Soviet leaders must be already a bit worried about the possible effect contact with the Western world will have on their athletes. And not without reason.

Let us imagine, for example, what happens when Ivan Ivanovich, a Russian weight lifter, meets up with Jim Biceps, an American contender. The first thing they do, of course, is feel each others muscles gingerly. All weight lifters do that. It is their way of saying "hello."

"Well, what will happen if you win the championship?" says Jim.

"I will get a foreman's job in my factory—perhaps also a Stalin medal," replies Ivan. "What will be your reward if you win?"—and adds hastily—"Not that it is possible."

"Oh, I'll turn pro," says Jim. "What does that mean?" asks Ivan.

"Oh," says Biceps, "it means I'll probably get a job playing Tarzan in the movies. I'll also start manufacturing bar bells under my own name, and a correspondence course in muscle building. Then there are the breakfast food endorsements, television appearances, and a book on weight lifting."

"All in all, I suppose I will clear $100,000 the first year,"

"That ain't rubles," sighs Ivan, enviously. But he will wander off, a Communist tainted for life, wondering why he can't get a chance to play Tarzan, too.

Once a horse sees hay it is hard to get him to eat sawdust—and like it.

Slicing Or Hooking Ball?

Analyze And Correct Game

Tenth of a Series

By JACKIE BURKE

Even when you are playing better than your average game, it pays to analyze each round in retrospect.

Most good golfers replay their games mentally, trying to discover where they can lop strokes from their scores.

You'll always find room for improvement.

And the best way to find out what's wrong with your game is to check back and analyze.

TO ANALYZE your round, you must remember what happened on individual shots. If you don't happen to have the kind of photographic memory that can recall in exact detail every stroke, devise some system of scorecard symbols to help your recollection.

If your memory is very untrustworthy, make notes after each hole. This takes only a few seconds.

If your putting was off—and this will be a contributing factor to an unsatisfactory score often than you might suspect—analyze just exactly what went wrong with each stroke on the greens.

Were your putts consistently short? If so, either you weren't hitting the ball hard enough or your stroke wasn't smooth. Did your putts curl away from the hole or rim the cup? If so, you were drawing the club across the ball, imparting spin.

Were you slicing or hooking? If so, your basic swing was wrong,

Slicing Or Hooking Ball? Analyze And Correct Game

so tear it to pieces on the practice tee, starting with the grip and hands.

A SIMPLE CHECK to be sure your right hand is in the correct position is to see that the V formed by the thumb and index finger points directly toward the right shoulder.

Did you consistently overshoot or were you short with your irons? If so, the chances are you weren't selecting the right club. You probably were either underclubbing or overarming.

One of the duffer's greatest faults in not getting his weight forward onto his left foot fast enough at the beginning of the downswing. The result is that he strikes the ball with too much of his weight still back on his right leg, and this almost invariably means he will chop into the ground behind the ball.

On every shot but the putt and drive, you hit down on the ball. Particularly is this true of iron shots. The heart and soul of the iron shot is to strike the ball first and then take your divot in front of the ball. To accomplish this it is necessary to overcome the strong natural urge to get the ball up by scooping behind it.

Just remember to bang right down on the ball with a smooth deliberate motion.

You'll be surprised at the distance and accuracy you get.

political address tonight in Olympia Stadium, also will attempt to woo Michigan's 46 national convention votes.

In addition he is expected to make a bid for Ohio's 56 delegates and Indiana's 32 in talks with those who attend his reception here. Only two of Indiana's delegates have said they would defy the mandate of their state's republican organization and vote for Eisenhower.

The general's entry into this labor stronghold follows by less than 24 hours, a statement by Philip Murray, CIO president, that Eisenhower is only a "me-lover" to Sen. Robert Taft because he advocated the use of the Taft-Hartley Act in the steel strike.

The impact of the steel strike has already hit Detroit industries and today's workers' holiday is not expected to find the CIO United Auto Workers leaders urging their members to turn out for Eisenhower's Flag Day address from the steps of City Hall.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast and Eisenhower faces the possibility of another rain-drenched appearance such as marred his inauguration before television viewers when he greeted the American public on his homecoming in Abilene, Kan. last week.

Supporters of Taft, the general's chief rival for the GOP nomination, were on hand for his arrival. However, they were not expected to actively interfere with the general's day here.

2 Car-Truck Mishaps Occur On City Streets

A car driven by George E. McFeeley of 731 E. Sixth St. was damaged when a truck driven by Edward Penix of London, O. backed onto Washington Ave. and struck McFeeley's car as he was turning south from State St. onto Washington Ave. at 6:48 p.m. Friday.

Another car-truck accident occurred at 9:25 a.m. Friday when a truck driven by Arthur Hipple of RD 3, Salem, rammed into the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Lois Dickson of RD 1, Beloit, at the corner of Ellsworth Ave. and 10th St.

POWs

Current had been outfitted for 300 men but had 900 prisoners in it. Military police guards buried a dozen tear gas grenades into a compound at Enclosure Eight and forced 500 North Korean prisoners to stop a mass exercise drill and chanting prior to the authorized hour of 6 a.m.

The prisoners, former inmates of notorious Compound 76, began their drills at 5:30 a.m. When they ignored a warning to stop, tear gas was hurled into the compound. The chanting and exercise stopped. Refused To Assemble

In the second incident three hours later, 500 North Koreans refused to assemble in the exercise grounds to have their identification records checked and be fingerprinted.

Guards threw a dozen tear gas grenades in the compound. The prisoners marched out and submitted to processing.

Camp authorities said that prisoners in a nearby compound apologized for the compound that had balked at the processing.

At Seoul, an Eighth Army release said Boater had warned hard-core Red prisoners that further "kangaroo justice"—where Red captives torture and kill fellow prisoners—"will be met with prompt punishment."

Boater issued the warning after the Reds turned over 21 anti-Communist POWs yesterday.

The count of Communist prisoners dead from the two and one-half hour battle in the breakup of Compound 76 Tuesday rose to 40 when one more prisoner died of wounds.

The U.S. Eighth Army itemized the number of prisoner weapons found in Compound 76 after the battle last Tuesday as follows:

"3,000 spears, 1,000 gasoline grenades, 4,500 knives, plus an undetermined number of clubs, hatchets, hammers and barbed wire flails. The spears were fashioned from tent poles."

senhower, a leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, he took what seemed to be a thinly-veiled dig at him.

The President said experience has exploded a contention by "some of our greatest generals" that White and Negro troops could not be fully integrated into the armed forces.

In his speech yesterday, Truman called for adoption of the full civil rights program he laid before Congress in 1948. It was this issue that split the Democratic party in the 1948 convention and later in the election.

the districts in 1948, and the boundaries of their district were radically changed. But they extended their organization to several other districts throughout the city. Their group, very considerable enlarged, is still functioning and is a potent political force in their state.

The Ohio Plan

Another illustration of effective citizen action is a get-out-the-vote movement that originated in Columbus, Ohio, during Senator Taft's campaign for reelection in 1950.

This group, which was called the Active Citizenship League, asked itself three questions at the outset: Whose doorbell should be rung? Who should ring it? What should take place when the bell is answered?

I shall let Mr. Freeman Guerin, who was active in this movement, answer those questions:

(1) "Election Board statistics showed that roughly 50 per cent of those eligible to vote were not registered to do so. So certain considered political subdivisions within the county were singled out as the proper places in which the doorbell ringing should take place.

(2) "Who should ring the doorbell? There was no question in our minds but that the doorbell ringer should be a resident of the area or precinct in which the work of registration should be done.

(3) "How should we go about recruiting these volunteer workers? This is the key to the success of our program. In the first place, we solicited members in the League by interesting them of influence in our program and then had them interest five other men who, in turn, would enlist five or more and so on.

Each member thus acquired agreed to work in his own immediate neighborhood and interest his neighbor to the extent that he would be willing to help when called upon. The membership spread and finally resulted in a nucleus of enthusiastic ward and precinct workers and organizers in the political subdivisions in which it was considered advisable to work.

"There was then prepared an organization chart which described the line of responsibility of workers down to the city block supervisor, with a detailed definition of the job assigned to each member of the working staff.

"The organizational work was carried on to the point where there was a worker in almost every block in the precinct. Meetings were held where they were properly schooled as to the most effective approach to be made at the time of the call. A sheet was used by the block worker for recording the results of his interview after which he returned it to headquarters for checking at the Board of Election to determine whether or not a follow-up was needed.

"On election day the organization was used to get out the whole vote, complete with baby-sitter, transportation for those who were in need of it, etc. This was considered an easy task by the workers who had gone through the rigors of registration. And this getting out the vote was really what paid off. When the program was at its peak, we had about 800 doorbell ringers and leaders on the job."

The results attained by the Active Citizenship League in the answers to that description. The Texas legislature is definitely conservative. It may be added that the voting records of the two Texas senators are conservative on domestic issues.

This Texas group has voluntary leaders in every large town and city in the state. It seeks to stimulate active participation in party politics, from the precinct level up. To that end, its workers and leaders try to instruct, in the legal and procedural facts of party life, people who are in sympathy with its conservative policies.

In 1951 the Texas legislature passed a comprehensive revision of the primary, convention, and election law, which will greatly increase the influence of this group. The legislation was very effectively supported by the group and also by many other groups and individuals anxious to break the hold of the Federal machine.

Governor Allan Shivers has now assumed a leadership in opposition to the Federal Administration which completely fits into the purposes of this group. At this moment, in May, 1952, it would appear that Shivers and this Texas group of opponents to Federal domination have completely taken over the Democratic Party of Texas.

This is another impressive bit of proof of what public citizens can do if they set to work and keep at it.

If such movements as these could be multiplied many times over the country, there would be an end to the domination of American government by a Federal machine.

There is no magic way to avoid the danger that we face. The way to preserve liberty is to induce American citizens to do their duty at the polls.

In plain terms, this means that somebody must get the cooperation of other people who are of like mind and spirit. They must not expect acclaim or glory. Rather, they must face many sacrifices of time, comfort, and peace of mind; for the way is arduous and wearisome, and the job is prosaic, generally uninspiring, and mostly thankless and barren of direct reward.

When they have found that there are enough of them to begin, they must find the means and develop the skill to organize.

They must reach and move the sovereign American voter who, however glorified by politicians and poets, is in the majority of cases a politically lazy and careless fellow. In most places he does not want to be watched, and then induced to vote. And he must have pounded into him the facts that will make his vote productive of results.

Atomic Sub

the original company launched the first successful submarine, the Holland (named after John P. Holland, its designer) in 1896.

The Nautilus, when completed, is expected to be the first of its kind in the world. But there has been speculation that Russia, already believed to have the world's largest submarine fleet, may be experimenting along similar lines. At below-surface depth, today's submarine must cut off its powerful diesel engines and rely on electric motors driven from batteries. They can stay down only a matter of hours and their speed is limited.

The solution to the problem has come in atomic energy. So far, science has not discovered a way to apply directly the tremendous energy of nuclear fission. So it is being hooked to one of the oldest forms of motive power, steam.
